

THIS WEEKEND IN DI CLUB - A LOOK AHEAD

By Alex Goff | 10.05.12

Fifteen DI men's clubs are in league play this weekend, with several looking to make important statements for the remainder of the season:

New England takes the weekend off, so they are idle. The rest are in action:

Buffalo is still nipping at Old Blues heels, sitting at 4-0 and just behind their NYC rivals by a bonus point. Buffalo plays 2-2 Monmouth and, after a week off to rest, will want to build on a superb win over a very tough White Plains team September 22. Led by Greg Campo and Nick Kismierski, Buffalo is on fire.

New York (1-3) plays 1-3 Long Island in a must-win for both if they are to have any thoughts of playoff rugby. The aforementioned 4-0 Old Blue play White Plains, who are 3-1 and itching to move higher. White Plains and Old Blue have the best defenses in the league, so this could be a low-scoring tussle. But Old Blue is also averaging over 54 points a game.

Village Lions, 1-3, face 0-4 Morris. The Lions have already pulled off one upset, and could vault into 4th if they win and Monmouth loses.
